

Website of the Month

Bob Marsh sent me a link to a website that has some impressive online calculators for Center of Gravity; Wing Loading; and Motor, ESC, Battery, and Prop sizing. Further, there is a great discussion on aerodynamics and a beginner's guide to RC airplanes. To top it all off, there are a few movies and a picture gallery. Here is the link:

Training Column

Do you want some training? How would you like to learn something new? Then do yourself a favor and spend some time at this month's Website of the Month. With the enormous amount of information provided, I guarantee that you will learn something new. I found it to be a really interesting and informative website.

See you at the field.
